To whom it may concern,

I have been primary care provider for Chirsty Lewis for over 10 years. She has struggled with bilateral leg lymphedema for a long time. She is faithful at the GYM and has had a personal trainer for years. Her diet is great and her lifestyle is wonderful.

In February of 2022 she had a surgical procedure for her lower extremities to decrease the swelling of calves and ankles, as well as to decrease the discomfort she was experiencing.

She has now begun to see swelling and discomfort in bilateral thigh areas. It has hampered her in her professional life-registered nurse working full time in the local ED, as well as working towards her master's in nursing education.

The sooner she can have procedure to help correct the lymphedema the sooner she can have complete health and quality of life.

Sincerely,
